

Dear Friends,

The daffodils have a message for humanity; they're talking to us right now! In the midst of any circumstance Spring dishes out, the daffodil bulbs will give way to their inherent design and flourish. Our design is to flourish. Our attentiveness to this divine design becomes the avenue through which we blossom consciously. We may feel lonely and isolated over the next many weeks, but we can give more attention to our divine design. When panic rises, raise love higher—"love casts out fear." When lack seems real, cast the net of thought to the abundance of gratitude. Use a MindBell app to ring every hour into one of love for another. Pick up the 'hundred-pound phone' and call one another--let's prove that we are never alone (I AM with you always). Every class, every meditation recording on our website, every call and email, every everything we do as a community is in support of giving attention to our divine design. Our website, now the hub of our community, is filled with updates and resources. Members are submitting mandalas and poems--let's join together as Divine Love rises and leads our way.

I love you. I am with you.

Kathy
